

DEPUTY MINISTER OF EDUCATION
BACK FROM TOUR OF EAST

That multiplicity of universities is a weakness of the educational systems of the eastern provinces was the opinion expressed by D. S. McKenna, deputy minister of education, in conversation with the Capital this morning. Mr. McKenna returned to the city Thursday after a tour of the east, in the course of which he has gathered information upon the subjects of manual and technical training, and upon educational problems in general, which will be of assistance in the revision of the school curriculum of Alberta.

Army of Peace Invades
Old Bull Run Battlefield

THOUSANDS OF THOSE WHO WORE BLUE AND GRAY
INTERMINGLE AT MANASSAS—PRESIDENT
TAFI SPEAKER OF THE DAY.

(Union Press Service.)
Manassas, Va., July 21.—An army of peace took possession of Manassas today. Thousands of men wearing the blue and the gray filled the old town. On the battlefield of Bull Run nearly 100,000 men were killed. The implements of death and destruction were not there for the purpose that took them there fifty years ago. Nevertheless, they were reminders of those of the north and the south who gave up their lives in the first great battle of the civil war.

Manassas was beautifully and profusely decorated in honor of the veterans and of President Taft and other notables who came to participate in the centennial celebration. Many of the visitors reached town yesterday, while the morning trains from Washington, Richmond and the west added thousands to the invading host.

There was no regular program mapped out for the forenoon. It was "as you please" with the visitors, and they took in the sights with a vigor that was remarkable considering the age of the veterans and the fact that many had come from a great distance. At daybreak almost the crowd began to move toward the historic battlefield. Motor cars and all varieties of vehicles were pressed into service. The battle memorials were inspected, and every hill of rising ground was climbed to get a clearer view of the field where the sons of the nation's best men went out for their country's cause, and where the Confederates fought valiantly for what they thought right. The great majority of the veterans had not visited the field when they fought in it.

It was remarkable how long and well the soldiers remembered every spot, every name, every order, every incident of the great conflict. They gathered in groups and pointed out to the wives, children and sons who accompanied them the places where this or that commander held the enemy back so long. They talked of reserve corps and attacks on their right of cavalry charges and defense by the left. As they wandered around they would see a monument or a marker on which the inscription would particularly attract their attention. Then they would figure out among themselves, through

Object to Hotels Being Granted Licenses

PROTESTS ENTERED WITH LICENSE BOARD AGAINST GRANTING OF PERMITS TO WAVERLY AND KINISTINO HOTELS—WILL BE CONSIDERED JULY 25.

Unhappily by the fact that the provincial license commissioners granted a license to the hotel to be erected at the corner of St. James and River street, in the face of a protest which they prepared and on which they secured the signatures of a large number of members of churches and young people's associations in all parts of the city, the Melbourn Men's association has filed a protest against the granting of a license to the Kinistino hotel, application for which will come before the board of license commissioners on July 25th.

The protest against granting the license to the Kinistino hotel has been signed by July 25th per cent. of the residents and business men of the district within two blocks of the building in which the bar would be installed, according to the statement of one who has had the work in hand. The ordinance calls for a protest signed by seven out of the nearest 20 residents to a hotel, and it is to be considered by the commissioners. A protest prepared in accordance with the ordinance and bearing the signatures of six out of the nearest 20 residents has been prepared and filed at the license department. Then, in addition to this, the signatures of a large number of the residents within two blocks of the hotel have been secured to a petition of protest which will supplement the one prepared according to law.

The proprietor of the Kinistino hotel is George Brown, formerly proprietor of the Post Office cafe on Jasper avenue.

Let Mr. Bouillon Try Conclusions at the Polls

Alderman McKinley offers to furnish Mr. Bouillon's written guarantee that if he Alderman McKinley or the man who runs it Mr. Bouillon's behalf is defeated, then Mr. Bouillon will quit the game.

If this guarantee were made by Alderman McKinley for himself the electors of the city would have no hesitation about accepting it.

But coming from Mr. Bouillon, for Mr. Bouillon, it is an entirely different matter.

The ratepayers of the city have a very distinct recollection of the tactics so recently pursued by Mr. Bouillon when he, through his solicitor, asked the council to defer action on the committee's report for one week and of how, when the council complied with the request out of pure good nature, he violated the confidence by taking advantage of their courtesy to make by proxy an application for another injunction.

With such a record against him, the ratepayers have no right to trust Ex-Commissioner Bouillon any further than they can throw him, and his guarantee, no matter by whom endorsed, is not worthy of consideration.

Mr. Bouillon is now out of the city hall, having been ejected by processes in compliance with all the legal requirements and formulas. If he aspires to get back the way for him to become commissioner again is to get himself elected to the position.

Let him get out and run for office himself and see if the men who made application really represented, as they claim they did, "themselves and all the other ratepayers of the city of Edmonton."

Conservatives Size Up Western Sentiment Correctly

With supply voted until September only and with the conservatives commencing the second session with the same tactics of obstruction as they pursued in the first, it becomes very clear that unless the unexpected happens there will be a general election this fall, and that the election will be on the old distribution.

Under the circumstances, redistribution is impossible. The census figures cannot be all received in Ottawa before September, and with the opposition following out their program of obstruction a redistribution bill could not be put through the house short of three months.

The west, therefore, stands to be beaten out of the twenty odd new seats to which it is entitled by the growth of population, and eastern provinces which by virtue of their failure to expand should lose seats, stand to be as much over-represented as the west is under-represented.

Under the tariff arrangement, which was fastened upon the country by the conservative party, the west, being consumer of most of the manufactures and the producer of practically none, already pays most of the taxation of the Dominion without having a chance to reap any of the benefits.

With their representation cut off and their taxation piled on, through the tactics of the Bordenites, it is any wonder that the conservatives feel that they cannot hope for success in the west and that the fewer seats there are to the west of the lakes the better they are off?

"Carelessness of Prospectors" A Proverbial Misconception

Following the Porcupine fire comes the announcement in the eastern papers that the fires were the result of carelessness on the part of prospectors.

"Carelessness on the part of prospectors" has become as stereotyped an explanation of forest fires as is the proverbial cigarette of city fires, but no man who knows the prospectors and their ways will admit for a minute that one-tenth of the fires charged up to them were ever set by prospectors, or by experienced woodsmen of any kind.

No one in all the forest better appreciates the menace to life there is in a careless fire than the prospector, and the more years he has been in the business the more escapes from just this danger he has experienced himself.

Inexperienced men, going through the apprenticeship of the wilderness in an attempt to become prospectors, may be careless until they learn the cost, but the experienced prospector is less likely to leave a careless fire than he is to kindle his fire with dynamite—which latter he sometimes does.

JUST PARAGRAPHS

A bill has been introduced in the United States senate making it illegal for any candidate to spend more than ten cents for each voter in his district. With Bourbon as one bit per shot it looks as though some of the free and independent will be victims of the drought.

Mr. Bouillon has spent a year showing that he has no false modesty to keep him out of the lime light. Now if he is not afraid he will offer himself for election.

If Bouillon wants to be commissioner he should get out and win the position by getting himself elected to it.

Daysey Mayme Just Had to Have a Cry

(By Frances L. Garside)

Does a woman ever get over 1912?

Does she ever become so interested in business that she doesn't worry when in an office because the sun is shining on her new rag at home?

When she goes to work does she leave what she calls her "feelings" at home, or does she take them along that she may win a little sympathy when they are stepped on?

Having found tears an effective weapon when in the wrong at home, does she expect to win in her business career by keeping the pumps in readiness for use at the office?

As a proof that she never gets over being a woman, there is the business career of Daysey Mayme Appleton, which reads like a summer shower—very short and very damp.

"I am a Thorough Business Woman," Daysey Mayme had always boasted, "and hold myself above the little manipulations of which my weaker sisters make great tragedies."

Having gone into training for a business career by making an office appointment with a big ribbon on the pocket, and by doing up her hair in such a way she could stick four pencils and a pen in it at once, she bought a little vase in which to put the flowers she expected the men at the office to give her, and went down town to take a job, with this difference: She called it "accepting a situation."

As she sat at her desk she congratulated herself that she was a Thorough Business Woman, above the weak notions and fancies of her sex. She would not fret if there was rain on Monday, or the stock was overdone on Tuesday, she said, had a career above clothes lines and frying pans.

It was with this feeling of superiority to her sex that she wrote a letter of four pages for her employer, marvelling as she wrote it that she so young as she could have such wonderful self-control and great strength of character.

When she had concluded it, her employer pointed out a name she had misspelled on every page, and told her she would have to write it over again.

The throat of this Thorough Business Woman began to swell, her eyes filled, the predictions were for rain and the predictions soon came true, for she cried and cried till the floor was soaked, the air became so damp all the office force began to sneeze, and her employer had a chill.

And still she wept so freely and continuously that her employer had to send for a boat to get her home.

All of which leads to the question: Does a woman ever get over being a woman?

MAN

(Life)

He's only a pup to pay her bills—Pay for her hats and frocks and frocks. An effort to take her to and fro. Wherever she thinks she wants to go. To call for her when the bridge game is done.

To sympathize with her grief or fun. A something to tell her troubles to. To cheer her up when she thinks she's blue.

To take, but never to give advice. To tell her her horrors of dark look nice.

To post her letters and wind the clock. And hook up the back of her modish frock.

To strap her suitcase and find her gloves. And listen to tales of her odd-time loves.

In fact, to do all she may say or ask, And be such a fool that he loves the task!

"THIS IS MY BIRTHDAY"

Chauncey Olcott

Chauncey Olcott, the well known actor, was born in Buffalo, N. Y., July 21, 1860. He was christened the Chauncey John Olcott, but this name was discarded for "Chauncey" when the actor adopted the stage as a profession. Though known to Broadway players as a dramatic star, Mr. Olcott in his early career enjoyed a wide reputation as a singer. After finishing his studies in the schools of his native city he made his debut as a professional singer in 1880.

For several years he remained under the management of the late Richard M. Hood. Subsequently he appeared with several well-known musical companies. His experience as a minstrel was followed by several consecutive seasons as a comic opera star. When he abandoned opera it was to appear as a star in French musical comedies. In this field he became the recognized successor to the late William S. West.

Heavy Batting By Robins Won Game

EDMONTON WAS OUTCLASSED AT THE BAT ALTHOUGH FIELDING WAS FAIRLY GOOD—TWO PLAYERS ARE TOO SICK TO PLAY AND TEAM IS CRIPPLED.

Score by Innings:
 Runners: 000 000 010
 Edmonton 10 10 130
 Hills 20 10 130
 Runners: 010 050 001
 Moose Jaw 12 15 3
 Hills 11 11 212

Edmonton lost! Moose Jaw batted effectively. The streak of bad luck seems to be broken, however, the play in the Edmonton field was fairly good. Had the pitching been strong the score might have been much smaller. Backers were swayed for eleven hits in his seven innings of the game and eleven runs were scored on hits gathered off his delivery.

The team went to the field badly crippled, two of its players, Bill and Henderson being ill to wear a uniform. The result was that the outfield was made up of one and the same broken by the absence of a first baseman and a short stop. Deacon White played first without an error and skills worked effectively on short. In the outfield, Bill, Stensen and Whisman, and for three innings back of the outfield.

Dudley made one sensational catch, perhaps the most difficult of the season when he caught a line drive from the far right centre garden. He was in the fifth innings that Moose Jaw struck, their hit batted swatting the ball for four hits that inning, two of them being home runs. In the sixth two hits, assisted by a couple of errors allowed three runs across the plate. In spite of these two unfortunate innings not more than four runs were obtained by Moose Jaw as no players by the Edmonton team.

After the first seven innings, Moose Jaw was very weak in the last, allowing the hitting to exert the full to all corners of the field and allowing several runs onto the bases by walks. Brown landed a fairly good single although had Edmonton had a good start this pitching was not sufficient to ensure their winning the game. The Eskimos in spite of the fact that they had a makeshift outfield, gathered eight hits off him, most of them being a three batter by Mills, who crossed the plate when Mills failed to relay it home.

It was in the seventh innings that Deacon sealed a single and got to third when Chesky Fox tossed the ball to the stand throwing it first. There was a fairly good bunch of fans out commencing the kind of game that was played last night, about 750 adorning the benches. With Bender won by six lengths. He ran the mile and seven yards in 1:43 1-5, a new track record.

WILL ARRIVE TO NIGHT

The Calgary athletes will arrive in the city this evening for the provincial athletic meet which will be held on the Exhibition grounds Saturday afternoon. The Lethbridge men should reach the city by 7 o'clock this morning. Calgary will send up the same outfit that came on July 5, so all the dogs has been given the same. The Lethbridge will probably have the same team on the track again although no word has been received from them.

The same Edmonton athletes will compete that were on the track on Dominion day and it is expected the same athletes will back. If Honorable Arthur Phillips will kindly restrain himself the meet should be as successful as though it had not been postponed.

Jack Johnson and Petty Arthur Curran of the English army, will elastically in a 200-yard race in Dublin, Ireland, the other day. The English army against a clumsy novice like Curran looks to be the worst piece of bunk
